

Waste Management

Our basic chemistry knowledge backed by inquisitive mind and requisite experience came handy in offering solutions to many areas of Waste-Management including Solid, Liquid and Electronics waste.

We have developed a technology wherein these waste products get decomposed and converted into usable forms which can be subsequently sold and used by ancillary industries.

Even the bio-hazardable chemicals and effluents released by the industries can be treated and converted into natural compounds for other industries consumption. Hence there is no need to dump these waste products either in soil, water or underground.
